The first day of classes students will take a placement test. Upon test results, students will be enrolled in the appropriate level for their knowledge of Italian language.

Level A1 Beginner - The student learns to converse about concrete subjects with one or more other people, provided that they speak with him slowly and clearly, using a standard or neo-standard version of the language. He learns to communicate his needs and to furnish personal information and talk about his family. He knows how to introduce himself and give basic information about himself, at times with some assistance from the other interlocutors. He learns to thank others and to apologize, but also to ask for and give explanations regarding vocabulary and grammar rules.

Level A2 Elementary - The student learns to understand and use common expressions to speak about the personal sphere (family and friends) and the social sphere, in order to fulfill immediate linguistic needs. Often written texts are presented with images: maps, weather forecasts, ads, or comics. The classroom activities create an atmosphere in which students make brief presentations for their peers on topics prepared ahead of time.

Level B1 Intermediate - The student is able to understand and to produce simple and coherent texts on familiar subjects and ones of personal interest. He is able to narrate events and experiences in some detail, managing to explain, briefly, his motivations and actions. He can discuss both concrete and abstract topics. He is able to speak about himself, to express needs and desires, feelings and states of mind, intentions and the ability to act.

Level B2 Upper Intermediate - The student is able to speak of herself, to express agreement and disagreement, to express personal opinions and speak of her own tastes and interests. He is able to oblige or convince someone to do something, or prohibit them from doing it. In telling about an experience or narrating a story, he has the necessary tools to discuss cause and effect. He is able to write clear, fluent texts on an ample range of topics related to her own field of study, and to compose texts from notes taken during a class, seminar, or conference. The class will deal with various topics which centre upon a single subject, while experimenting with different textual genres (biography, monographs, newspapers, literary texts, song lyrics, etc.) with the additional goal of underlining the typologies of the texts themselves (narrative, explanatory, argumentative, regulatory, descriptive).

Level C1 Advanced - The student gains a mastery of the language and is able to draw upon a rich vocabulary necessary to modify his style according to the topics discussed, which may regard professional and personal life or leisure time. His communicative competence becomes yet more refined, as he learns to recognize allusive and humorous shades of meaning, and manage his use of intonation and pauses during speech. He is able to understand even non-standard native speakers. His ample knowledge of the language in many fields permits him to work professionally in Italy without professional or communicative difficulty.
Level C2 Proficiency - The student at this level understands implicit and implied meaning in varied textual genres and confidently navigates the different sociological and sociocultural levels of the Italian language. He has an excellent command of all linguistic functions and textual genres. He fully comprehends Italian grammar and syntax and is familiar with the complex architectonic structure of the Italian language.
